This view displays detailed information about a specific commit to a repository, such as:

- Who made the commit.
- What time the commit was made.
- What files were changed.
- What specific changes were made.

The top left of the Commit Details view displays the hash of the commit and the parent hash. On the right, you can choose to browse the repository or copy the full hash of the commit.

You can use this information to perform tasks such as copying the full hash of a commit or browsing to the parent commit.

Directly below this section you can find details such as:

- The commit message description.
- The author of the commit.
- The account that submitted the commit (if different from the author).
- The date of a commit to the repository.

In this section you can see the number of files that changed in the commit, along with a list of those files. The right side of this section displays a graphical representation of the changes made to the files:

- Red represents deletions.
- Blue represents modifications.
- Green represents additions.

A small bar provides a visual representation of the distribution of these changes within a file. Next to this bar are the specific number of lines deleted, modified, or added.
